Mother, daughter team up for Mesquite Jazz Festival

For the Desert Valley Times in a city where first-time events continually generate fresh and successful promotions, the promoters of the inaugural Mesquite Jazz Festival Friday through Sunday at the CasaBlanca promise their event will be memorable.

"We have jazz enthusiasts coming from Denver, Arizona, Missouri, Virginia and even New Orleans," said Sally McKay from her home in Oceanside, Calif. "In fact, I look for the Mesquite Jazz Festival to be the best first-time festival I have ever been involved in 20 years."

McKay has concentrated her efforts on cruise ships in the past, but Mesquite and the CasaBlanca promise to create the ideal environment.

"This is going to be fun, and we're really looking forward to it," said McKay, who spearheads MG Travel for jazz.

"This is our first time out with a land festival - and it has been just great working with the CasaBlanca Resort and Casino," she said. "We like being producers of a festival which enables us husband Bob has been involved as a volunteer with jazz festivals for the past 30 years up and down the West Coast. In fact, we first met in 1994 at the San Diego Dixieland Jazz Festival."

McKay has good feelings that the event at the CasaBlanca is going to replace other events.

"We are hoping this festival helps fill the void from losing the four Pacific Northwest festivals in the past year," she said. "We enjoy being producers of a festival which enables us to enjoy the music we love. Bob has been involved as a volunteer with jazz festivals for the past 30 years up and down the West Coast of the U.S. and Canada.

McKay's daughter, Mary McGeorge, backs her mom's prediction and is looking forward to the trip, saying the Mesquite Jazz Festival is going to produce a level of fun not seen before in Southern Nevada, or at least in Mesquite.

"I'm from New Orleans and I'm a real jazz enthusiast," McGeorge said. "We hear that the good people of Mesquite already know how to party and we're going to
